Conduct research on a portion of the seafloor using archived acoustic data and state-of-the-art software to address questions related to seabed/substrate characteristics such as geomorphology, benthic habitat potential, and geologic origin.